The 19.7% increase in Revenue per Available Room (RevPar excluding the addition of rooms) was the net effect of:

- a. An 8.0% ADR increase resulting from: (i) double-digit growth in the rates of 15 hotels in the Company’s portfolio; this increase was driven by the correct management and implementation of hotel rates, and (ii) the foreign exchange rate benefit related to hotel rates in U.S. dollars, due to global brands.
- b. Occupancy levels increased by 6.6 percentage points, mainly in the cities of Chihuahua, Hermosillo and Reynosa, where the manufacturing and industrial sectors’ strength continue to generate demand; as well as the properties located in Guadalajara, Queretaro, Toluca, Irapuato and Silao, where commercial strategies have been reinforced.
